

FOURTEENTH GENERATION OF THE BCSP INTERNS

For Stevan Tatalović internship at the Belgrade Centre for Security Policy is a chance to be part of a team of people with similar interests and also the best way to start an academic or research career in the field of security. He is especially interested in the field of comparative analysis of human rights and human security. Translations, brief comments, texts on security policies and the protection of the environment would be something he would like to write, and he is also interested in the area of former Yugoslavia, which in his view makes a fertile ground for exploration of transitional justice and still unresolved issues of regional security . Until now had he worked as Assistant at the NGO Foundation B92, employee of the TOC data base search and was the author of political commentary on the multimedia web portal pescanik.net. Stevan is a graduate of the Faculty of Security, University of Belgrade, student of nineteenth generation of multidisciplinary undergraduate studies (DAUS program) organized by the Belgrade Open School and also a Summer School student of comparative study of conflicts in the Center for Comparative Studies of Conflict (CFCC) at the Faculty of Media and Communications. He plans to enroll in Master studies of human security in Denmark.

Ivana Kovacevic believes that during the internship in BCSP she will combine skills gained by volunteering and extracurricular engagement with the areas she is really interested in, such as: national security, national security institutions and international organizations whose domain is in the field of security. She wants that her further education goes in that direction. She is a student in the fourth year of international studies at the Faculty of Political Sciences in Belgrade. She worked as a member of the Department of Public Relations at the Student Conference of Serbian Universities (SKONUS). She was the organizer of the simulation of the National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia for political science students and she was a volunteer in the team for the protocol at the European University Debating Championships 2012th year.

During the internship Ivana wants to combine her faculty knowledge with the work ethic and experience that she will gain working and researching in BCSP. She thinks that it is very important meeting new people and making friendships during the internship.

As a student of international law Gavriilo Nikolic is particularly interested in issues of collective peace and security, and he believes that his internship will allow him to further explore this area. He is especially interested in the concept of United Nations peacekeeping missions. Gavriilo is a student in the Faculty of Law. He was working as an assistant coordinator of the seminar Applied diplomacy, in organization of Generation 21 and the European Movement in Serbia and he is also a Representative for public relations of Bamerca (Cooperation Balkans and the Middle East). He is also an active member of Scouts Javor New Belgrade. During the practice in the Belgrade Chamber of Commerce he met with the concept of public diplomacy in the economy and studied the laws and secondary legislations. He has a great desire to acquire knowledge in the field of intercultural relations, negotiation, diplomacy, peace-building and international law. Gavriilo believes that internships in BCSP will be significant and big step for his further improvement and progress.

FOURTEENTH GENERATION OF THE BCSP INTERNS

Final year student of the Faculty of Political Science, Dragana Bajic thinks that BCSP internship is a unique opportunity to deepen her knowledge in the field of security, gain experience in research projects and lay the foundations for her future professional goals. She is particularly interested in research and believes that her efforts will contribute to the BCSP and by the Center to the community. She attended a seminar on mechanisms for fight against corruption in Serbia and course in rhetoric and public speaking Retori 2012th. She participated in the workshop Media - human rights watchdogs organized by the Belgrade Centre for Human Rights. She has experience in media relations and monitoring. As significant previous experience she suggests two-month internship in the newsroom EurActiv, during which she dealt with issues of security. She believes that the experience gained during the practice helped in development of her research skills.

Aleksandra Djordjevic thinks that practice in BCSP is an opportunity to learn more about the work of NGOs, and direct communication with people. According to her having these skills means understanding how the modern world works, and for a historian that would be a valuable experience.

Aleksandra graduated at the History Department of the Faculty of Philosophy in Belgrade. She plans to enroll in master degree at the Department of History of Yugoslavia. She applied to the BCSP internship with a desire to gain experience, but also to improve her skills because she wanted to get out of the historical context and to look at things from different perspectives. Her goal is to end the practice with better understanding the present time in order to better understand the factors of influence in the past, because she believes that they are in very quick succession. Her interests include history of 20th century, the history of Yugoslavia and research in gender studies. She would like to engage in projects that would present issues such as the status of women in various historical periods.

Ninoslav Rupić wants to contribute BCSP by working on projects related to the europeanization of the security sector, Euro-Atlantic integration, transparency and fight against corruption within the system, the involvement of civil society in the reform process and the approaching of security system to the citizens. He was an intern at the Anti-Corruption Agency in the Department of Research and Development and he worked as an examiner in conducting research on the verification of the integrity of the health care plans. Also, he was a volunteer educator in various projects of citizens association Serbia on the move. Ninoslav is a student of psychology at the Faculty of Philosophy in Belgrade. He attended a one-semester course in the field of economics, politics, security, moral and political philosophy at the Academy of Liberal policies and training for educators in the Anti-Corruption Agency. He is interested in the field of security, crime and terrorism. He expect that the work in the BCSP will be dynamic, and opportunities for training and learning new skills will be unique.

FOURTEENTH GENERATION OF THE BCSP INTERNS

Danijela Pankas is a student at the Faculty of Political Sciences, Department of International Relations, International Politics module. She was a member of the Academic Council and the Commission for the implementation of the Bologna Declaration, as well as student-assistant at the History of political theory. She applied for the internship because of her incredible interest in security studies. Previous work experience she gained mainly as a reporter and presenter on several radio stations, and she was a journalist and a person in charge of public relations in the preparation and presentation of historical documentary about Zemun gymnasium "Echoes of the past time". She loves reading and writing about security, especially Serbia and the Western Balkans. She plans to enroll in master degree and believes that her internship at the Belgrade Centre for Security Policy will help her to fully understand in which direction can go on her education.

Dobriła Suput graduated at the Faculty of Political Sciences in Belgrade, political science modul. At the moment she is completing Master studies of Criminology at the Police Academy. She also completed an internship Media, Culture and Society organized by The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey and the Faculty of Political Sciences in Belgrade and political skills course organized by the Centre for modern skills in Belgrade. She worked at the Ministry of Justice and Public Administration as a junior consultant in the Department of European Integration and International Projects. She attended the seminar Negotiation 23 chapters - Judiciary and fundamental rights of the Office for European Integration and the Belgrade Open School. She participated in the Youth Leadership Conference and the Serbian diaspora organized by the Ministry of Diaspora, the training Develop project budgets for the IPA, as well as the course Fundamentals of decentralized management of EU funds, the Management Service.

